Maria Oquendo takes office as APA president

ARLINGTON, Va. — Maria Oquendo, MD, began her one-year term as president of the American Psychiatric Association (APA) at the conclusion of the APA Annual Meeting in Atlanta on May 18. At the same time Anita Everett, MD, began her term as president-elect.

At the APA Annual Meeting Opening Session, Dr. Oquendo introduced her theme for the coming presidential year, “Prevention Through Partnerships.” She emphasized that prevention is the future of American medicine and of psychiatry and that the best way to work toward prevention will be through collaboration with colleagues in primary care and other specialties.

“In thinking about the many ways that APA makes a difference for our members and our patients every single day, it seems to me that we can also leverage our membership and leadership to develop partnerships with other disciplines in medicine and with the community,” Dr. Oquendo said.

Volunteers sought for APPA Committees

The viability of the Alabama Psychiatric Physicians Association is highly dependent on the active participation of all members. Just paying annual dues and attending an occasional meeting is not sufficient to keep our association strong enough to support and augment the professional activities of our psychiatric community in Alabama.

A very important avenue of participation in APPA is to serve on a committee. The Executive Council is seeking volunteers to serve on the following committees for 2016-2018:

- Education Committee
- Ethics Committee
- Legislative Committee
- Early Career Psychiatrist Committee
- Resident-Fellow and Student Committee (replaces Member-in-Training)
- Public Affairs Committee
- Social Media Committee

Active participation and contribution to the activities of the association is required of those members who wish to apply for higher office or be selected as a Fellow or Distinguished Fellow in the American Psychiatric Association.

If you are interested in serving on a committee or learning more about the responsibilities, please contact APPA Executive Director Jennifer Hayes at (334) 954-2500. 🌐

Ready to take the next step in your career?

Become a Fellow of the APA and earn the FAPA designation. Fellows are committed to psychiatry and the ongoing work of the APA. Be among the prestigious 25 percent of APA general membership. There are no additional fees or dues payments, just complete the application.

- Fellow status is an honor that reflects your dedication to the work of the APA and signifies your allegiance to the psychiatric profession.
- You are recognized by your colleagues in the Association as a member of a very select group.
- All newly appointed Fellows are publicly recognized at the Convocation of Distinguished Fellows, which is held every year during APA's Annual Meeting.
- You receive a lapel pin in recognition of your status.

Dr. Oquendo is currently the residency training director at the New York State Psychiatric Institute and Columbia University, where she started as a community psychiatrist. She is professor and vice chair for education at Columbia University. Dr. Oquendo also serves as vice president of the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention and serves on the American College of Neuropsychopharmacology's Council and the National Institute of Mental Health's National Advisory Mental Health Council.

"This is an amazing time to be a psychiatrist because the field is on the cusp of major discoveries," Dr. Oquendo said. "We know more about the brain than ever, and new treatments – ranging from pharmacology to behavioral interventions – are being developed. We are poised to join our sister disciplines in medicine to develop preventive strategies. I'm excited about this opportunity to lead the APA at this important time." 🌐

House Committee votes to advance Mental Health Bill

APA Headlines, June 16, 2016

The Hill (6/15, Sullivan) reported that on June 14 by a vote of 53-0, the House Energy and Commerce Committee voted to advance HR 2646, “The Helping Families in Mental Health Crisis Act.” The measure now advances to the full House floor.

A related article in The Hill (6/15, Sullivan) reports that “House leadership is tentatively planning to bring a mental health reform bill to the House floor in September, according to Energy and Commerce Committee Chairman Fred Upton (R-Mich.)” Upton also “noted the strong, bipartisan vote could aid advocates of bringing up the bill sooner.”

US News & World Report (6/15, Leonard) points out, however, the amendments to the bill, “including one that would have allowed the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention to research gun violence, were voted down on party lines.” Nevertheless, “advocates for research appear to be gaining momentum.” On June 14, the American Medical Association “called gun violence a ‘public health crisis’ for the first time and vowed to lobby Congress to lift the ban on gun violence research.” 🌐
